

Pathways to change	Exploring	Emerging	Sustaining	Systems change	Proof Points (OJJDP Manual for DMC)
Douglas County juvenile justice stakeholders develop a common vision for creating a rehabilitative and restorative juvenile justice system.	Cross system steering committee and work groups organize around a common vision. Work groups identify emergent opportunities for aligning work plans and actions with common vision.	Cross system steering committee acts on common vision through supporting backbone work groups, communicating a consistent message, and engaging institutions and organizations for change.	Douglas County juvenile justice institutions and organizations align their work with a common vision for a rehabilitative and restorative system.	Douglas County juvenile justice institutions and organizations communicate and collaborate in ways that demonstrate shared accountability for results.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Reduction in juvenile arrest of juveniles in Douglas County.</li> <li>Referrals to juvenile court</li> <li>Increase in the percentage of Cases diverted</li> <li>Reduced Cases involving secure detention</li> <li>Reduced Cases petitioned (charges filed)</li> <li>Reduced Cases resulting in delinquency findings</li> <li>Reduced Cases resulting in probation placement</li> <li>Reduced Cases resulting in confinement in secure correctional facility</li> <li>Reduced Cases transferred to adult court</li> </ul>
Douglas County juvenile justice stakeholders connect, convene, and collaborate.	Cross system steering committee and work groups develop mutually reinforcing activities through existing and new resource bases.	Cross system steering committee and work groups continuously refine data to improve reliability and validity.	Douglas County juvenile justice institutions and organizations continuously refine data to improve reliability and validity.	Disaggregated and de-identified data is accessible and used by Douglas County institutions and organizations to celebrate wins, identify growth areas, improve outcomes, and address all disparities in the juvenile justice system.
Douglas County juvenile justice stakeholders build, share, and elevate restorative and rehabilitative evidence based practices, and procedures.	Initiative partners identify performance indicators of a rehabilitative and restorative juvenile justice system. The backbone assess the quality and validity of juvenile justice Douglas County data management systems.	Douglas County juvenile justice institutions and organizations experiment and learn from implementing restorative and rehabilitative evidence based practices, policies, and procedures.	Douglas County juvenile justice institutions and organizations are continuously adopting and adopting restorative and rehabilitative evidence based practices, policies, and procedures.		