

JDAI connect

THE ANNIE E. CASEY FOUNDATION

JDAIconnect is a destination for juvenile justice reformers to connect, find resources and learn. The platform is available to everyone- practitioners, policy makers, community organizations, advocates, youth, families, researchers and others. Membership is open to all and free of charge, whether or not you participate in the Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative.

All members of JDAIconnect can:

- Reach out to a network of juvenile justice reformers for advice, camaraderie, peer support or inspiration
- Find reports, articles, presentations and other documents on juvenile detention reform or youth justice more broadly.
- Access training on demand on subjects such as eliminating systemic racial and ethnic disparities, risk assessment instruments, and improving conditions of confinement.

To sign up and join the JDAI community, please visit www.jdaiconnect.org. You will be redirected to the login screen on the Annie E Casey Foundation's Community Café where you should click on the "Non-Casey Staff Login" link. Then fill in your email address and click the confirm address button. You will receive an email with instructions on creating your account and logging into the Community Café. Once in the Community Café, click on the "Need access to JDAIconnect?" button to join JDAIconnect.
